The Intelligencer.
WHEELING, JUNE 12, 1891.
Wheeling's Building Season.
Up to date Wheeling's present building season breaks the record. This season is far in the lead not only as to the number of buildings but even more so as to their character.
Such buildings are going up this year as Wheeling never saw before. This is true as well of residences as of business houses, in which the new departure is especially pronounced. New ideas and new materials are being put in use with a view to stability and elegance.
A scarcity of mechanics delays some operations already begun and stands in the way of others in contemplation. Fortunately employees and wage-earners in the building trades are getting along harmoniously and there will be no break between them during this season.
The review in to-day's INTELLIGENCER, though not covering all the operations in detail, presents an exhibit that will open the eyes of the people of Wheeling to what is going on. The array is instructive and suggestive.
Unless something not now foreseen happens to stay this march of development, Wheeling will be almost made over in the next five years. This sort of thing is contagious, and all Wheeling is catching it.
The INTELLIGENCER's local pride permits the remark that Wheeling has stood greatly in need of an epidemic of this kind.

The British Monarchy on Trial.
It was not necessary to await the comments of the English newspapers to know that in the proceedings before Lord Chief Justice Coleridge the British monarchy was on trial. The sovereign of Great Britain is only a figurehead in these days, but there is among British subjects a feeling of self-respect which demands that the royal figurehead shall at least be respectable.
In the person of Queen Victoria this demand has been satisfied. If the queen has not had an opportunity to be great she has been the embodiment of a pure life, a striking contrast to other rulers of her house. Not only has her virtuous example led the British people to look for better things in their sovereigns, but since the Georges reigned the world has moved, and under no monarchy has the idea of free government made greater strides.
Great Britain to-day is a monarchy only in name and outward form. The real thing has passed away. Very little will be required to wipe out all that remains. That the British press is free enough and bold enough to suggest the possibility that Victoria's son may never be king, is a reminder that the institution of royalty has no great hold on the people of the kingdom.
The personality of the heir apparent may easily serve to present to the world the engrossing spectacle of British royalty as a dissolving view. Albert Edward's moral lapses may lose to his house all that generations of blind luck have brought it.

The Sheriff is Right.
If trouble results at the Ashtabula docks it will not be the fault of the sheriff, whose appeal for a military force looks to the preservation of the peace. He may be assumed to know whether he can or cannot get long without the troops.
The sheriff is at the far end of a long string of red tape, and by the time the other end is reached the mischief may be done. If troops had been sent to the Connelville coke region earlier, when men on the ground thought they should have been sent, the bloodshed that followed might have been prevented.

John Sherman at Home.
No small part of the stock in trade of the Democratic politicians of Ohio is the facility with which they spread stories of opposition to John Sherman. It would be strange if in his long and conspicuous career John Sherman had made no enemies who would like to unhorse him, or if in so great a State there had not grown up in all these years men ambitious to secure the seat he holds in the Senate.
To say, however, that John Sherman's retirement is desired by any element of Ohio Republicans respectable for numbers and standing, is to say what nobody at all conversant with Ohio politics will believe. The question will be very easily settled by the election of a Republican Legislature. That will mean John Sherman's reelection unless he shall flatly decline.

It takes a long while to make a John Sherman, and nobody knows this better than the Republicans of Ohio.
To the Kaiser, Greeting.
Ed Herr Rickert is another man who is not afraid of royalty, otherwise he would not salute the emperor of Germany as he did in the Diet yesterday. To say that "it may be necessary to recall the man who alone is able to direct the government," is to tell the young absolutist emperor that there is a greater man than he in the land which he thinks he owns.
These sounds will not fall pleasingly on the ears of the man who only the other day told his soldiers that if he told them they must shoot father or brother it was their duty to pull the trigger.
William will have to haul in his horns or submit as gracefully as he can to have knobs put on them.

A Just Judgment.
The conviction of one of Frick's superintendents for forcing men to work during the coke strike, is something new under the sun, but altogether just and in the line of a good public policy. No man has more right to compel another to work than strikers have to compel him not to work. During the nightmare in the Connelville region many things were done for which there is no warrant in law. It was altogether a bad business.
The National Cutters and Trimmers' Assembly will have to expel Hughes, convicted of levying blackmail to the tune of $1,000, or it cannot escape responsibility for his act. Hughes may not be the first man who has turned the boycott to his personal account, but he is the first to be convicted, and so he offers the first opportunity to organized labor to say what it thinks of this sort of thing.

Well-to-do Wheeling is turning more and more to the green fields of the country as a place of residence. Our suburbs begin to count, but not in the city's census. Wheeling will soon have to begin the modern process of absorption, or Chicago will be too far ahead to overtake.

The jump of gold in Argentina reminds us of what we have seen in our own country, and what we may see again if the mongrel movements go far enough to water the circulating medium to the taste of the fanatics who are engineering them. Like breeds like.

McKinley is pursuing the even tenor of his way, and the Democrats of the country and all the free traders in the world were not willing to go down in their clothes to beat him for governor of Ohio. McKinley has heard it thunder before.

Father Mollinger may be performing some wonderful cures up Pittsburgh way, but it may be doubted whether he has been called to Rome to minister to the Pope. His holiness may have other business with Father Mollinger.

MEAGER reports come from the flooded region of the Red River, but enough is told to convey the idea of sad havoc of life and property. Those who have seen a river mad beyond control can easily fill in the details.

CHILE'S overturning will have to turn over a little more and show that it has turned to stay for a few days before we can recognize it. Some things are not to be done as free-handedly as you knock off a mosquito.

NOTWITHSTANDING all that has happened, not an American snob who crosses the Atlantic this summer will decline a chance to put his legs under Wales' mahogany. Watch the gossip and see.

DE LESSERS has planted a big pile of money in his big ditch, and now he is to be called to account for it—which he never can do. A great steal is covered up in that canal.

WORLD'S FAIR matter is progressing. They could hardly be going better if New York had discovered that they are going at all. What a wonderful country this is, to be sure.

SOMETHING new in the historical line may be in store for Great Britain. For example, the election of a successor to Queen Victoria.

PITTSBURGH figures a loss of $1,000,000 up to date by reason of her building trades troubles. This kind of thing is a real luxury.

THESE OUR THINKERS.
What Ingersoll Doesn't Know.
Chicago Inter Ocean.
Colonel Ingersoll asserts that "the church is no longer a power in the thinking world." And yet "the thinking world" knows that never in the history of Christianity has it exerted so great a power for good as it does to-day. More men and women are imbued with its spirit, love and charity and the Christian graces are more universal and practical than ever before, and enter into both the individual life and the life of the nations. Colonel Ingersoll and all his class of reformers are careful to keep close under its influences, and every day in the peace and good order of society reap its benefits. If Christianity or the church representing it is not a potent factor, or if heathenism is better, Colonel Ingersoll and his philosophers should be able to point to something better where Christianity has not molded the destinies of the people.

Pins in the Pillows.
New York Tribune.
Now that the jury in the sensational bacarat trial in London have decided against Sir William Gordon-Cumming in his suit for slander, several heads, socially big and socially little, may rest more easily on their pillows.
Right Again.
It is said on good authority that the Welsh tin plate trust will send a big sum of money into Ohio to defeat McKinley if he is nominated—another very good reason why he should be nominated and elected.
Might Flock Together.
Pittsburgh Dispatch.
If all the bounced ministers are to be offered churches, there will hardly be congregations enough to go around.

So It Is.

FAIRMONT NORMAL.

A Successful Year Successfully and Pleasantly Closed.

COMMENCEMENT PACKS THE HALL.

A Fine Programme of Music, Essays and Orations Well Rendered. Young Men and Women Competent to Teach—Regents May Select Another Principal for the School.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.

FAIRMONT, W. VA., June 11.—Commencement day at the State Normal School at this place has always been an occasion of interest. Like all commencement days in college towns it is kept as a holiday by most of the people and particularly by the younger portion of the population. Everybody, young and old, enjoys it as a festive day. At an early hour this morning the streets were thronged with people making their way toward Canton Hall, where the twenty-second annual commencement exercises of the Normal School were to be held. This State institution is the leading one of its kind in West Virginia, and is one of the best in the country. It numbers among its attendants over two hundred young men and women of the State, representing nearly every county, who are being trained to teach the youth of West Virginia. During the past year the attendance has been up to the average and Professor Roemer, the principal, formerly of Wheeling, is very popular among the students. There is some talk of a change, however, by members of the board. There were six ladies and six gentlemen in the graduating class to-day, and it is said they were above the average of those turned out of this school in the past. Their names are as follows: Irene Hirschberger, Tunnelton; Florence B. Joliff, Uniontown, W. Va.; Ina Forrest Nelson, Capon Bridge, W. Va.; Maude Pugh, Pleasant Dale, W. Va.; Gertrude Thompson, Laurel Point, W. Va.; Charlotte J. Wilson, Fairmont, W. Va.; Guy Bartlett, Fairmont, W. Va.; William J. Brand, Salsburg, W. Va.; Austin J. Cornwell, Kasson, W. Va.; E. Forrest Goodwin, Bridgeport, W. Va.; Frank Stout, Bridgeport, W. Va.; Jacob N. Yates, Palatine, W. Va.
A PACKED HOUSE.
The programme of the commencement exercises was carried out in Canton Hall, which has a seating capacity of about 600. It was packed to overflowing with a brilliant audience, composed of representative people from all portions of West Virginia. Many distinguished people were in the stage, including Governor Fleming and the members of the Board of Regents. Following is the programme, which was creditably rendered: Music, orchestra; prayer, Rev. W. B. White; music, orchestra; essay, "Historic Development," with salutatory, Charlotte J. Wilson; oration, "Circumstantial Evidence," Jacob N. Yates; music, essay, "Piercing the Mists," Maude Pugh; oration, "The Demands of the Present," W. Frank Stout; music, essay, "Pitfalls," Florence Joliff; oration, "Farmers' Sons," Austin B. Cornwell; music, orchestra; essay, "Higher Education of Women," E. Irene Hirschberger; oration, "Man's Reason," Guy Bartlett; music, orchestra; essay, "The Influence of the Press," Ina Forrest Nelson; oration, "Silent Forces," William J. Brand; music, orchestra; essay, "Woman's Sphere," Gertrude Thompson; valedictory oration, "Annexation of Canada," E. Forrest Goodwin; music, orchestra; conferring of diplomas, Hon. B. S. Morgan; music, orchestra. Benediction.
The Board of Regents held a business session to-day. They spent the entire afternoon inspecting the various proposed sites for the new building for which an appropriation was made by the last Legislature. The location will be selected at the next meeting. The Board left for Shepherdstown to-night.

Presented to the Historical Society.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.

CHARLESTON, W. VA., June 11.—The Kanawha City Company to-day presented the State Historical Society with a lot containing an Indian mound, which will be fenced and otherwise improved by the society and known as Mound Park. The Historical Society has in its possession an autograph survey of Daniel Boone of ten acres of land on "Cracked Crick, Kanawha county," for which the Historical Society of Kentucky has an outstanding offer of $1,000. The collection is growing rapidly. The library is now quite extensive, and many interesting relics have been collected.
Bound for Europe.
Mr. Louis C. Stifel, his son Edward and daughter Mary left yesterday afternoon for New York, whence they will sail on the 18th on the City of Berlin for Europe. Mr. Stifel and his daughter will return after a pleasant tour in the old country, while Mr. Edward Stifel will remain abroad and learn in the same establishment in which his grandfather learned his trade the same business, that of a calico printer. The establishment is at Kaiserslautern, in the Palatinate, where the senior Mr. Stifel was working before he came to this country. On Wednesday evening the Arion Society paid Mr. Stifel a farewell call, serenading him, and a very pleasant evening was spent by all.
Mr. J. L. Stroehlein, of the Jefferson Insurance Company, will make an extended visit to Europe this summer.

The Linsly's Closing Exercises.

The commencement exercises of the Linsly Institute will be held on the Fair Grounds on Friday next instead of Wednesday, as was stated in yesterday's issue. The Field Day will occur on Wednesday, the 17th. An elaborate programme, consisting of sixteen numbers, has been arranged, ending with a good "tug of war."
Messrs. Sweeney and Wheat have been selected as the contestants against Paxton and Arbenz in the tennis game, in doubles, on the Linsly Institute field day, on the 17th. In the singles Paxton and Norton were selected. The trial for contestants was held at Mr. O. C. Dewy's court, on the National road.

Over the New Route.

The Ohio River railroad trains came up from Benwood Junction over the new track laid for it by the B. & O. company yesterday for the first time. The track is a great improvement on the former one, being straighter. It runs along the river bank, about a thousand feet west of its former position, having been moved out to give the B. & O. more room for its loop, as was lately explained at length in the INTELLIGENCER.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.

PAKERSBURG, W. VA., June 11.—The present term of the United States Court will be a busy one. The civil and criminal dockets are large, and under both some important cases will come up. On the civil docket, there will be brought up a number of important oil cases. The famous Laidley land suit of Huntington will come up at this term. It will bring several prominent attorneys here. So far there are fourteen deputy marshals in town, and with them are a batch of prisoners and witnesses. There are about seventy-five prisoners who are under arrest for offenses of various kinds.
There are about forty lumber men who have been indicted for obstructing navigation. Some of them are prominent and wealthy lumber merchants. Besides these there are the usual run of illicit liquor dealers, moonshiners, pension defrauders, etc. The case of Sam Bonnett, who last year jumped a $1,000 bail bond, will come up. He was captured after a chase of several months. The case of three Baltimore & Ohio engineers, for illegal voting at Grifton, will be up at this term. There will be at least forty more prisoners brought in by the deputies before the term is over. Samuel Brown, of Brownsville, a very wealthy man, is here under arrest for obstructing navigation by running a sawmill on the Guyandotte river.

There may be persons in this community who are at times troubled with colic, or subject to attacks of bowel complaint. If so, they should try Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.
